

Available Online at EScience Press Journals

International Journal of Agricultural Extension

ISSN: 2311-6110 (Online), 2311-8547 (Print)

<http://www.esciencepress.net/IJAE>

ISSUES OF LEGAL REGULATION IN AGRARIAN AND TOURISM SPACE

Yuliia VyshenvskaNational Pedagogical Dragomanov University, Kyiv, Ukraine.*

EDITORIAL

As is known, the agrarian and touristic sectors are developing most dynamically. They have a crucial impact on social situations not only in particular regions or countries but also in the whole world. It is worth mentioning that these two branches do not just encourage the full functioning of almost all types of economic activities, such as construction, transport, communication, and light and heavy industries, but also stimulate their development.

Digitalization prompts new forms of activities, while the coronavirus pandemic boosted changes in all aspects of public life, specifically in those spheres that are recognized as economic flagships. Taking into account all these aspects, it is possible to state that the touristic and agrarian spheres need to study specific characteristics of their functioning (especially, during the pandemic because of their sensitivity to restrictions) and special features of their management in the context of digitalization. Moreover, they require the development of methodological strategies and transformational paradigms in the conditions of the pandemic. In addition, scientific research on legal regulation in agrarian and touristic areas has become topical.

The special issue dwells upon the problems of the organization and methodological aspects of financial-economic security management; reveals the legal fundamentals of tourism activities; explores social and legal innovations; looks into digitalization methods in the international economy; and analyses the international legal acts in the tourism industry and agribusiness.

The author team of this special issue hopes that the research results will be used for further theoretical studies on the problems of agrarian and touristic laws as well as for the preparation of relevant normative-legal acts and methodologies to improve the legal regulation of agrarian and touristic relations. Without pretending to be exhaustive, the academicians expect that the suggested aspects of the research will be helpful to those who are interested in the legislation and laws in the agroindustrial and tourism complexes and will give them an impetus for further academic research.

We invite you to consider these issues in detail in the academic articles written by researchers from Ukraine and Poland. We hope that the scientific materials presented in this special issue will be interesting and useful!

*Guest Editor: Yuliia Vyshenvska

Email: vyshnevskya-yuliia@sci-univ.com

© The Author(s) 2022.

Publisher's note: EScience Press remains neutral with regard to jurisdictional claims in published maps and institutional affiliations.

Open Access This article is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License, which permits use, sharing, adaptation, distribution and reproduction in any medium or format, as long as you give appropriate credit to the original author(s) and the source, provide a link to the Creative Commons license and indicate if changes were made. The images or other third-party material in this article are included in the article's Creative Commons license, unless indicated otherwise in a credit line to the material. If material is not included in the article's Creative Commons license and your intended use is not permitted by statutory regulation or exceeds the permitted use, you will need to obtain permission directly from the copyright holder. To view a copy of this license, visit <http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/4.0/>.